RE: Ms. No. 2021-11091

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to confirm that Joachim Waterschoot (Ghent University, Department of Developmental, Personality and Social Psychology, Ghent, Belgium) is considered to have met the PNAS authorship requirements due to their contributions in the Psychological Science Accelerator Self-Determination Theory Collaboration consortium for the following publication:

Psychological Science Accelerator Self-Determination Theory Collaboration. A Global Experiment on Motivating Social Distancing During the COVID-19 Pandemic.
119(22)e2111091119.

Space limitations have precluded PNAS from listing all individuals on the author byline of the published article; however, individual members of the group are displayed within the Supporting Information of the published article and are included within the article metadata to ensure that the article is correctly indexed and linked to individual members in searches.

PNAS authorship is limited to those who have contributed substantially to the work. All collaborators share some degree of responsibility for any paper they coauthor. Some coauthors have responsibility for the entire paper as an accurate, verifiable report of the research. These include coauthors who are accountable for the integrity of the data reported in the paper, carry out the analysis, write the manuscript, present major findings at conferences, or provide scientific leadership to junior colleagues.

Sincerely,
